ADVISE GIVEN BY PRESIDENT

TALKS FOR PEACE IN THE FAR EAST

Russian Ambassador Calls at White House and Has Heart Heart to Conference With Roosevelt—Diplomats Hopeful

Washington, June 2.—The president today struck a blow for peace in the far east. In a conference at the white house this afternoon with Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, the president earnestly hoped Russia would find with confidence peace with Japan. Prolongation of the war, he believed, will not result in victory for the Russian army and can only serve to increase Japan's demands and render more difficult the drafting of a treaty of peace which the czar as well as the mikado can sign. The president spoke, he said, as a friend to Russia no less than Japan and on behalf not only of the Washington government but in the interests of humanity.

Until his words have reached Tsar Nicholas and have been communicated to Emperor Nicholas in the friendly spirit in which they were uttered, their effect cannot be estimated. Soon after reaching his embassy Cassini began preparation of a dispatch to his government. Neither at the white house nor at the Russian embassy could a formal statement regarding the conference be obtained. Throughout the diplomatic corps there is strong hope today's conference marked the first step toward peace, but the general opinion is that weeks may elapse before even preliminary negotiations can be begun. Diplomats express the hope that Emperor Nicholas will receive the president's words as the counsel of that government which has for years been Russia's traditional friend and will weigh it accordingly.

Unaccompanied, Count Cassini called by appointment at the white house this afternoon. He was ushered at once into the blue room where he was joined immediately by the president. Appreciating the natural feeling of the ambassador on such an occasion, the president began the conversation by a frank personal expression of sympathy for Cassini, alluding to the severe strain under which he has been for the past few days and deploring the sorrowful loss of life and consequent sorrow caused by the recent battle in the sea of Japan. Without further preliminaries, general and entirely informal and personal conversation upon the whole situation followed.

The president informed the ambassador he earnestly hoped for early peace in the far east and that in expressing this hope the voice not only of his government, but of the people of his country, was being heard. He explained that it would be a mistake for Russia to continue the war. In addition to suffering entailed by the naval conflict he did not believe Russia had anything to win by prolonging hostilities.

The president did not enter into details of the personal character of the conversation and his long acquaintance with Cassini enabled him to speak plainly regarding the decisive character of the Japanese victories. What Japan's probable peace terms will be the president was wholly unable to say, but he held the president to express the opinion that it would be a mistake for Russia to continue the war. In addition to suffering entailed by the naval conflict he did not believe Russia had anything to win by prolonging hostilities.

The president did not enter into details of the personal character of the conversation and his long acquaintance with Cassini enabled him to speak plainly regarding the decisive character of the Japanese victories. What Japan's probable peace terms will be the president was wholly unable to say, but he held the president to express the opinion that it would be a mistake for Russia to continue the war. In addition to suffering entailed by the naval conflict he did not believe Russia had anything to win by prolonging hostilities.

Having received no word from his government since the announcement of the Russian victory, the president's official dispatches telling of the engagement. Cassini was unable to do more than give the president his own personal opinion of the situation. The ambassador was deeply touched by the sincere cordiality of his reception and the frank manner in which the president spoke. He could not say, however, that there was anything in the present situation, unfortunately as he undoubtedly was for his government which necessitated Russia's return to peace. As to territory he pointed out that China and Russia had been the most recent port Arthur was only under Russian control. On the sea, Russia had nothing to win, he said.

It was the ambassador's firm opinion that this was not the psychological moment in which to discuss peace with Japan. Whatever might be the ultimate decision of his government he took the ground that Russia could see nothing other than waiting or by continuing the war on and. There was hope yet for victory for the Russian army and in any event Russia has not yet lost one foot of territory, nor was the Russian frontier endangered.

The ambassador pointed out that there was not the slightest official intimation from any source as to Japan's probable terms and that these demands as stated unofficially were "altogether impossible." If Japan's terms should prove anything like as severe as they have been reported it was the ambassador's opinion that Russia could advantageously continue the war indefinitely and eventually win victory on land. That his government would so decide he did not wish to predict, but at last accounts the emperor was for continuation of the war.

The conversation continued for more than half an hour, characterized throughout by frankness and friendliness. Later on when the ambassador has heard from his government, after communicating the president's views and the president's willingness to render Russia any service possible in initiating peace negotiations, with Japan, he will have another talk with the president.

Regarding his visit to the white house all that Cassini would say was "I had a most cordial conversation with the president this afternoon, during which the whole situation in the far east was discussed informally and in a general manner. A peace overture was received from Japan, nor were any made. Our talks were confidential, of course, and of a very general character."

NEITHER SIDE READY.

London, June 2.—The conference between President Roosevelt and Russian Ambassador Cassini evokes the greatest interest here. The belief in London is that at the present moment neither belligerent is anxious for peace. Some advice from Tokyo represents that the Japanese victory was received by the Japanese as the outcome of a desire to avoid peace negotiations until the expedition was ready. In course of preparation has had time to reduce Vladivostok. With regard to Russia, it is felt here that the mere sense of the enormous loss of prestige involved in the disastrous defeat of Rostovsky will determine her to continue hostilities.

No doubt is felt that Foreign Secretary Lansdowne will gladly second Roosevelt's efforts in the direction of peace. The secretary already has had interviews with the Russian ambassador to Great Britain, according to rumor, at the behest of King Edward, in which he intimated this masterly willingness to offer his friendly assistance in arranging a peaceful settlement.

CRUISER SUNK

Destruction of Russian Ship Confirmed—Wounded Are Thrown Overboard

Tokyo, June 2.—The reported sinking of the Russian cruiser Jemchug has been confirmed. It is planned to bring the battleship Orel to Yokosuka, where the emperor will visit her.

A story is in circulation to the effect that the opening of the fight three hundred men on the Orel were killed or wounded. The Germans and ships of injured were closed so that about one hundred and forty men were thrown overboard. Those slightly wounded were taken to the ship to prevent their interference with the fighting.

It is impossible to obtain any confirmation of the story, but reports indicate that the crew of the Orel fought with desperate bravery throughout the day previous to their surrender. The hull of the vessel is shell-marked and many of her guns smashed or dismounted.

St. Petersburg, June 2.—Times Russian press this morning is full of news regarding the Russian navy. All consensory is now removed from foreign newspapers. The people are appalled at the horrible stories of slaughter on board Russian ships. The admiralty has not yet been able to estimate even approximately from foreign sources the loss of men, but as the ships were overmanned the total will be greater than the ordinary complement of vessels would indicate, and probably will exceed ten thousand. It is only about four thousand men saved. Conservative Russians are alarmed at the possibility of disorders in various parts of Russia as the result of the disaster. A feeling of disquietude for the future is manifested everywhere.

SAILORS MUTINIED.

New York, June 2.—Detailed from a trustworthy source leave little room for doubt as to a times dispatch from St. Petersburg, that Admiral Noboroff's sailors mutinied in the battle of the sea of Japan and other troops of the admiral and many officers were killed or wounded. According to an overextension, bound in their cables and hoisted the white flag, might men in Noboroff's squadron were killed or wounded, but the admiral himself was not.

JAPANESE THREAT.

London, June 2.—According to dispatches from Shanghai the Japanese are preparing to launch a military expedition to the island of Sakhalin and have threatened to send a fleet to Shanghai to compel the observance of neutrality with regard to the Russian vessels there. This threat the dispatches say has caused the Russian consul to consent that the vessels be interned.

G. A. R. COMMANDER.

Boston, June 2.—General Blackmar, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army, announced to day he would leave Boston Monday to attend proceedings of various department encampments. These will include Wisconsin, Indiana and Michigan.

A SETBACK FOR FRANCE

CHECK IN REFORM POLICY IN MOROCCO

Proposals Are Declined by the Sultan—Situation Viewed With No Little Concern in Diplo- matic Circles in London.

Paris, June 2.—Although official confirmation is withheld, it is now generally accepted here that the report from Tangier to the effect the sultan of Morocco had declined the French proposals for reform in Morocco unless approved by an international conference was correct. This is widely commented upon as amounting to check if not failure of the French policy in Morocco. Only absorbing attention given to King Alfonso prevents a renewal of the storm of protest against Germany, as an international conference would be considered to be the result of the influence of Count von Tattenbach-Ashold (head of the German mission to Fez) with the sultan. French statesmen continue to rely on Great Britain, Italy and Spain refusing to join the proposed conference, which, with refusal of France and Russia and possibly indifference of the United States, would leave the conference without any membership except Germany. However, it is recognized that even without any international conference the sultan's refusal to agree to reforms proposed by France continues the old status quo which France sought to terminate.

DIPLOMATS WORRIED.

London, June 2.—The situation over Morocco is viewed with no little concern in diplomatic circles here. Indirectly the sultan's refusal to accept the French proposals is regarded as a rebuff to Great Britain, but the Associated Press understands that rather than risk further complications France will be likely to join other powers in a conference at Fez and Great Britain will follow suit. Should France decline to enter the conference Great Britain likewise will decline, in which event a serious difficulty may ensue.

PARRY RESIGNS

Retires From Presidency of In- dustrial Association—In- ceded by C. W. Post

Chicago, June 2.—D. M. Parry resigned and C. W. Post, of Battle Creek, Mich., was elected to the presidency of the National Citizens' Industrial Association of America at a meeting here today of the executive committee of that organization. This action was taken at the request of Parry, who wished to be relieved of the work. Post named James A. Emery, of San Francisco, secretary of the association. Headquarters in New York city.

The association, Post declared to night, would at once begin organizing citizens associations in every city and village in America. "These local branches," said Post, "will mass the citizens for protection of their business interests to insure individual personal liberty of each person against over acts of labor unions, and to guarantee continuous operation of the industries of the country."

The executive committee to night sent a telegram to Senator Platt, president of the United States Express company, congratulating him on the attitude he had taken in the Chicago armistice strike. The message declares any change in the stand taken by the express companies would be detrimental to public interests.

WANTS SATISFACTION

Servia Threatens to Recall Min- ister From Constantinople

Constantinople, June 2.—Servia has notified Turkey she will recall her minister from Constantinople unless satisfaction is given by June 24 for recent violation of the Servian consulate at Monastir. Macedonia. It appears the local police searched the consulate and seized certain papers. Servia demands dismissal and further punishment of the chief of police and expression of regret on the part of the government for the occurrence.

WEDDING GUESTS

Burlington, June 2.—The French delegates to the wedding of Crown Prince Ferdinand and Archduchess Marie-Louise were here today and were cheered by a considerable crowd. THE EQUITABLE Chairman Frick Resigns Posi- tion—Plan to Reorganize Executive Committee.

New York, June 2.—Disputed claims of victory by conflicting factions in the Equitable Life Assurance society and ap- parent readjustment of interests marked the meeting of the directors of the society held to day for the purpose of passing on the report of the committee of seven, of which H. C. Frick is chairman.

Resolutions were adopted providing for the appointment of a chairman of the board with plenary powers over all departments and affairs of the society and vide for the appointment of a chairman of the board with plenary powers over all departments and affairs of the society and selection of a nominating committee consisting of D. O. Mills, John A. Stewart, A. J. Cassatt, T. Jefferson Coolidge, August Belmont, J. B. Morgan and Robert T. Lincoln to report at a meeting of the board to be called Wednesday next a candidate for chairman. The executive committee is to be reorganized at that meeting and an appropriate amendment to the by-laws will be prepared for submission to that meeting for the purpose of carrying out these resolutions. James Hazen Hyde is "requested" within three months, to divest himself of control of stock of the society, on such terms and conditions as shall be satisfactory.

The meeting to day was called for 11 o'clock, prior to which hour there were protracted conferences in the offices of President Alexander and Vice President Hyde and in the office occupied by the Frick committee. It was declared by interests friendly to Hyde that strong efforts would be made at the meeting to defeat the report of the Frick committee and withhold it from publication and that President Alexander and his friends had joined forces with Hyde in supporting this course. The directors remained in session several hours, the time being taken up with statements by Alexander and Hyde, both of whom opposed adoption of the Frick committee report.

After final adjournment late in the afternoon it was learned that the question of the adoption of the Frick report had not come before the board. Frick, perceiving he would unquestionably be outvoted on the resolution to adopt the report, made no comment and after tendering his resignation left the room. It is understood Bliss and Harriman, both of whom tendered their resignations, followed him immediately. Frick and Harriman were the prime agents in formulating the report. The Frick report, it has been ascertained, recommended the removal of President Alexander, Vice President Hyde and Second Vice President Campbell.

FOUND VALUABLE PAPERS

Bedford, Ind., June 2.—Workmen engaged in unloading a car load of sand found hidden in it several bundles of papers which proved to be bonds and securities valued at $300,000. They were identified as the property of a Wilmington, Ill., bank, which was robbed of the papers and $25,000 cash May 9. The papers have been returned to the bank.

OWNERS BLAMED

Four indictments against Zeigler Coal Company result of Disaster at Mine.

Springfield, June 2.—As a result of the investigation into the alleged violation of the mining laws of Illinois, the Franklin county grand jury at Burton indicted the Zeigler Coal company, whose mine was the scene a short time ago of an explosion that cost the lives of half a hundred men. Two indictments are returned against the company for failure to keep a crosscut in the mine and one for hiring a mine inspector who was without a certificate of competency.

PHILIPPINE RAILWAY EXPERT

SPRINGFIELD TO HOLD SHOPS

Springfield, June 2.—Vice President R. D. Delano and party of other Western railroad officers were in Springfield this evening. Delano said the Western shops in Springfield would not be moved to Decatur, as was intended, and the Decatur shops would not be built.

INCORRECT REPORT

Paris, June 2.—The report that the French ambassador to Russia, Bompard, who has been here on leave of absence, is hastening back to St. Petersburg, as France has agreed to ask the concert of powers to bring about peace between Russia and Japan is said by officials here to be incorrect. Bompard, it appears, is not returning to St. Petersburg.

BETTER TRADE REPORTED

HELPED BY CROP AND WEATHER CONDITIONS

Building Active the Country Over Except Chicago—Collec- tions Good and Money Easy— Trade Reports

New York, June 2.—Bradstreet's review of trade says: Trade reports, crop conditions and, to a lesser degree, collections, display an improved appearance, the result of rather better weather conditions. Clearing skies and more seasonable weather have made for better retail trade; improved reorder business with jobbers in seasonable goods, and last, but not least, have cleared the crop situation and allowed some measure of ascertainment of damages done by excessive rains, high water or low temperatures in widely separated areas. Weather and crop irregularities color trade reports, but it is to be noted northwestern cities return very optimistic reports, the central west is cheerful and some southern points report trade better than anticipated earlier. Streets on trade of backward spring at the east are being repaired. Industry is still active, though iron and steel trades are rather quiet, with crude materials easier, though scrap is in rather better tone.

Building is active the country over, and, except at Chicago, labor troubles are not seriously hampering. All kinds of building material, including lumber, brick, cement, glass, paints, oils and hardware are actively called for. Money is still easy. Textile trade shows irregularity in different lines. Woollen goods are quiet, but strong.

Wheat, including flour, exports for the week were 1,300,000 bushels, against 1,377,000 this week last year; July 1 to date, 58,530,000, against 57,940,000 last year. Corn exports, 458,000 bushels, against 37,000 a year ago; July 1 to date, 71,070,000, against 56,235,000 in 1904.

DUNN'S REPORT

New York, June 2.—Dunn's report says: The season opened bright with promise of dealers preparing for heavy spring business, but abnormally low temperatures and excessive moisture retarded consumption and burdensome stocks must be reduced by clearance sales at bargain prices. A few weeks of hot weather would greatly improve the situation, however, particularly as to the agricultural outlook, which would be reflected in other industries very promptly. A little weakness is noted in pig iron, but most lines of finished steel are in good demand and confidence is expressed in results a month hence.

Other leading branches of manufacture are making favorable reports. Returns of railway earnings show an average gain of 7.7 per cent. Foreign commerce at this port last week was favorable, exports exceeding those of 1904 by $4,877,880, while imports showed a small gain of $48,864. Minor metals are fairly steady. Pig iron contracts are being placed for delivery during the first half of next year. Textile factories are stronger in tone because of upward tendency of raw materials and also on account of the limited supply of goods in first hands, often making prompt delivery impossible. New England footwear manufacturers are now operating close to their full capacity.

MIDSHIPMEN REINSTATED

Washington, June 2.—Earl W. Chaffee and John H. Leland, two of the three midshipmen dismissed from the naval academy for hazing and whose reinstatement subject to examination was authorized by congress at its last session, will be reappointed to the navy by the president in a few days. They met all requirements imposed by the navy department. John D. Little, the third midshipman affected by this legislation, qualified mentally and professionally, but failed physically. His disability is believed to be only temporary and is expected to be remedied by a course of treatment, in which event he, too, will be reinstated in the naval service.

St. Paul, Neb., June 2.—The county of Butler, Nebraska, need not pay $10,000 and interest, the twenty-three years to agree bonds and other holders of county bonds given in aid of construction of the Lincoln & Northwestern railway in 1879. The federal circuit court of appeals to day said that failure to register the bonds in twenty-three years was "nullities" and the county need not pay them.

VICTORY FOR HANLON

Gets Decision Over Corbett at End of the Twentieth Round

San Francisco, June 2.—Buddy Hanlon fought Young Corbett to a standstill dur- ing the last few rounds of a twenty-round contest to night and was awarded a hard- earned decision.

The fight was exciting from start to finish. During the first part of the contest Hanlon had a slight advantage, but no harm was done either man until the eleventh round. Then Hanlon rubbed Corbett to the ropes, but the Denver man stalled him off and blocked a number of stomach punches. Corbett got to the center of the ring and in a mix-up landed left and right swings on Hanlon's jaw. The San Francisco boy went to his knees and took the count on nine. He came up fighting and in spite of Corbett's strenuous efforts to put him out finished the round strong.

For the next four rounds Corbett went at his man and in the thirteenth had Hanlon very tired, but he could not land a knock-out blow.

Hanlon braced up in the fourteenth and seemed to have a slight margin over Corbett. The fifteenth round was about even. The sixteenth round was Corbett's and the seventeenth Hanlon's. Corbett had a shade the better of the eighteenth. The nineteenth and twentieth were all Hanlon's.

"The fight closed with both men on their feet and Corbett all but out."

PEACE ADVOCATES

Platform of Principles Adopted —Roosevelt's Efforts In- dorsed.

Lake Mohonk, N. Y., June 2.—The platform of principles setting forth the achievements and purposes of the international arbitration movement was adopted at to day's session of the conference on international arbitration. President Roosevelt's efforts in promoting the cause of international peace and justice and his call for a second conference at The Hague are gratefully endorsed and hope expressed the conference will frame a general treaty of arbitration that may more effectively meet all requirements.

A special meeting of lawyers and jurists attending the arbitration conference here to day, of which Oscar Straus was chairman and Prof. James B. Scott, of Columbia university, secretary, steps were taken for the formation of an American international law society. The proposed organization was strongly endorsed before the conference by Judge Gray and Mr. Straus as a most important advance movement in behalf of international peace.

Dr. Andrew D. White, former United States ambassador to Germany, who was announced as one of the speakers at this conference, was unable to be present, but sent a letter.

GRANTED NEW TRIAL

The case of Pearl Brown, who was recently tried on charges of murder in the district court, and who was sentenced to eight years, came up before Judge Owen P. Thompson Friday on a motion for a new trial. Attorneys Wilson and Baldwin for the defense alleged an error in the record in allowing certain instructions fixing the length of sentence. It was shown that the case came under head of the indeterminate sentence rule in virtue of the enactment of the parole law, and on the showing made a new trial was granted. Bill was fixed at $3,000 and the case will probably not be heard before the November term.

TRIED TO WRECK TRAIN

Kalamazoo, Mich., June 2.—A Potawatomi Indian at Pokagon to night tried to wreck a Grand Rapids & Indiana passenger train by placing ties on the track, but the attempt was frustrated by a freight train. The freight conductor charged the passenger train, which carried two hundred passengers. The Indian was arrested and put in jail at Dowagiac. He confessed to the attempt.

INDICTMENTS RETURNED

IN CONNECTION WITH THE TEAMSTERS' STRIKE

Names of Indicted Not Divulged —Thought to Be Based on Charges of Conspiracy to In- jure Business.

Chicago, June 2.—Indictments connected with the teamsters' strike have been returned by the grand jury and will be returned to Judge Barnes' court to-morrow. The names of those indicted could not be ascertained. It was reported, however, that the names would not be given in connection with the charges made by prominent spokes of the teamsters' union that he was offered $10,000 to call a strike against Sears, Roebuck & Co. It was found the indictment limitation barred indictments and evidence given was largely of hearsay character. It was rumored some indictments will be based on charges of conspiracy to injure the business of a number of large concerns and it was also said some indictments will be sought for perjury.

Robert J. Thorne, general manager of Ward & Co., was before the grand jury this afternoon and while denying absolutely all knowledge of the $10,000 matter, he said he had not seen any of the leaders declared he did not even know what was made. He said he had not seen any of the leaders declared he did not even know what was made. He said he had not seen any of the leaders declared he did not even know what was made.

The jurors expressed themselves as anxious to learn from John O. Driskoll, former secretary of the Central Union of Teamsters' association, who was declared by them and Young to have been present at the time of offering of the alleged bribe. Driskoll, however, could not be found in the city, although deputy sheriffs have searched for him for the greater part of two days.

JURY INVESTIGATION

Members of the grand jury are endeavoring to day to gather more complete and later details of the stories told by President Sheen and former President Young of the teamsters' union. As the limitation on the grand jury's power to investigate has run out against most of the alleged bribery matters connected with the strike, the grand jury is preparing to accept for over-acts connected with so-called outlawed conspiracies.

Rioting broke out again to day in the lumber district when a wagon was attacked by a mob of about thirty. The mob threw stones. Two policemen were slightly injured. Police were obliged to fire several shots into the air in order to disperse the crowd.

APPROVED CLAIMS

Special Session of City Council
Was Held Friday Afternoon—Discussion as to the Scope of the Call.

The city council met in special session Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the call of the mayor pro tem, Bert Johnson. The clerk called the roll and the aldermen present were Higgins, McGinnis, Kendrick, Kennedy, Haingrove, Babb, Goveia, Hildreth, Capps and Ticknor.

The clerk read the call, which specified as the business the reading and approval of claims against the city.

Ald. Kendrick and Goveia wanted to include in the call the transaction of any other business that might properly come before the council.

Quite a discussion followed, in which all the aldermen expressed themselves.

The mayor pro tem stated that he had called the special meeting after thinking over the matter carefully and had included in the call only such business as he deemed of imperative importance. He felt that the bills of the city ought to be paid; that there were many who wanted their money; and that they had every reason to expect the proper steps would be taken to enable them to draw their money.

"He hoped the members of the council would concur with him in accomplishing the purpose for which the meeting had been called."

Ald. Hildreth and Ald. Capps felt that the call was specific and that it would not be proper to attempt the transaction of business outside of the call.

The clerk stated that the law was very plain that the business of the session must be limited to the specification of the call.

Ald. Goveia stated that in the past the scope of the business provided for in the call had frequently been enlarged so as to include other business and he could see no reason why in present cases should be made an exception. He was in favor of calling a special meeting on petition of three aldermen and changing the call so as to admit of the transaction of other business than simply the consideration and approval of claims.

Ald. Hildreth thought the suggestion of Ald. Goveia was entirely out of order and wanted the mayor pro tem to so rule.

Ald. Kendrick moved that the call be enlarged so as to include the transaction of other business. No second.

Mayor Pro Tem Johnson declared the motion of Ald. Kendrick out of order.

The clerk was ordered to read the claims.

Ald. Capps, chairman of the finance committee, asked leave to bring up the matter of salaries in certain departments where an ordinance passed under the last council had raised the salaries of certain officials of the city. He stated that the law provided that no officer of the city could have his salary raised during his term and yet the ordinance provided for the increase of salaries after May 1. The fact that none of the appointments, which would be affected by the new ordinance, had been made there was some doubt in the mind of the finance committee as to the approval of the claim for such purpose. Ald. Capps stated that the finance committee felt that this matter should be brought to the attention of the entire council in order that they might act intelligently in the premises.

A general discussion followed, a discussion that was not at all times germane to the question at issue.

In the absence of City Attorney Morrissey from the city, the clerk stated that he had consulted Attorney J. J. Reeve, ex-city attorney, in regard to the matter and had his written opinion which he would read. The opinion showed clearly (and authorities were cited) that in spite of the fact that the increased salary ordinance went into effect after May 1st, nevertheless until new appointments or reappointments were made, such as would constitute a new term for the official in question, it would not be legal to pay the increased salary and the old salary rate would stand.

The clerk then read the list of claims against the city and all properly approved claims, on motion of Ald. Hildreth, seconded by Ald. Ticknor, were ordered paid.

Ald. Goveia then moved adjournment and the same carried.

OLD SETTLERS' REUNION

There is a worthy movement on foot in the historical society to try for a reunion of the old settlers, and the young settlers, also, of the county of Morgan, Cass and Scott. So far the enterprise is only in its infancy and is to be acted on formally by the society, but the movement is receiving favor in many directions. It is the sentiment of the subcommittee, which had a meeting Friday, that it would be a good idea to endeavor to have the old settlers meet once a year at Nichols park and make it a regular event, as the new place makes it easy to provide for such a gathering, and when the street railroad is completed the park will be easy of access to all who arrive in the city on any railroad line passing through Jacksonville. This whole matter is only under consideration by the subcommittee to investigate and lay before the society, which will be done soon, and when definite action is taken due announcement will be made. This is a matter in which all persons should co-operate heartily, for such neighborly gatherings are always delightful and the effort will be to make the date a time when it will least interfere with farming operations.

FIRE ALARM

The hamburger stand, owned by Heath & Layman on North Main street, was destroyed by fire Friday afternoon. Clarence Heath, one of the proprietors, was filling the gasoline stove while the burners were lighted, with the usual result, and the whole of the interior was at once enveloped in flames. The fire department was called and the blaze was extinguished with the chemical engine, but not until the structure was practically a total loss. The value was about $100, which is fully covered by insurance. Mr. Heath was slightly burned about the face and hands, but not seriously.

PRAIRIE GRASS

E. A. Taylor, residing on East State street, has left at the Journal office some stalks of prairie grass, which he says is getting very rare in this state. It is taller than timothy and when well cured makes the best of hay.

COLORADO

Which is the best way to reach Colorado? A few decades since the best way to reach Colorado was by wagon or "prairie schooner." Nowadays the best way to reach Colorado is via the BURLINGTON ROUTE.

This great railroad has its own thrown trains over its own rails from Chicago, Omaha, St. Louis and Kansas City, as well as from other important points, direct to Colorado. You can leave Jacksonville on the Burlington at 11:30 a. m. and make good connection either at St. Louis or Galesburg, with the through trains, arriving in Denver the next evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The Burlington's Denver trains are standards by which others are judged. They are made up of the best equipment human skill can devise.

Burlington roadbed is solid and track is smooth, with the result that riding on the Burlington is always enjoyable. The dining car service is known by all experienced travelers to be so good that there is nothing better.

If you anticipate going to Colorado or to the Pacific coast, you will make no mistake if you select the Burlington. Full information regarding rates and connections will be furnished on application to

NEW MARRIAGE LAW

Applicant for License Must Be Either Groom or Bride—Third Party Cannot Obtain Necessary Document.

County clerks in Illinois are finalizing themselves with the new marriage laws which go into effect July 1. Copies have been sent out and several radical changes have been made. Applicants for licenses will find that the old practice is a thing of the past and either the bride or groom must appear in person to secure the document.

The bill passed the house and senate and was signed by Governor Deneen. County clerks in all parts of the state must become acquainted with its requirements. The law prohibits the securing of licenses by a third party. In the past a member of the bridal party was given the privilege of securing the license after making the proper affidavit. The new law provides that the applicant must personally appear before the clerk. The age and residence of the contracting parties will not be sufficient as the date and place of birth of each must be furnished.

When the law becomes effective "child marriages" will be a thing of the past. No male person under 19 years old or female under 18 years old will be able to secure a license under any circumstances except through action of law. Even at these ages parents or guardians must give their consent, otherwise the parties must be of legal age.

During the last year a number of child marriages have been performed and in many instances the bride or groom carried with her or him the consent of the parent or guardian. Under the old law these consents were accepted after an affidavit was made that the signature was genuine. Under the new law this practice will be abandoned, and the marriage of girls under 16 years is prohibited. The application forms which are now used will in all probability be changed in order that the date and place of birth of the applicants may be added. The residence will also be given on the application. The usual oath that is administered will be changed and the clerks and deputies will have a new recitation to commit to memory before July 1.

PRETTY GOOD

A few months ago we received a remittance for advertising from the Globe Electrotype company of Chicago, accompanied by a beautifully printed card containing the words "The sweetest words in the English language—'Enclosed' please 'and check'." Last month their remittance was accompanied by a card saying:

"To gain his end
In life's fierce tussle
Man's two best friends
Are hope and hustle."

This suggested to us the idea of enclosing a verse of alleged poetry in some of our monthly statements to show our sympathy for our victims, so we tried:

"Of all words that ever were writ
The saddest of all are 'Please remit.'"
But we only tried it once, for the reply we received was:

"We will not pay your cursed bill.
We want you now to know it.
Nor put our check within 'till
You put one on your post."

Since then the muse has been silent. "Education in Business."

REBEKAH'S MEET

Thursday night, at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ober, on South East street, Caritas lodge No. 13, Order of Rebekahs, had a delightful gathering. The house was handsomely decorated in pink and white and all possible was done by the attentive host and hostess for the pleasure of the guests. A guessing contest was the principal feature of the evening, the prize, a fine cologne cake, being awarded to Mrs. George Chambers. Delicious refreshments were served during the evening and the entire time was greatly enjoyed. About 125 were present.

VERY ANNOYING

This Hardly Expresses What Jacksonville People Say of It.

Any flatness of the skin is annoying. Little danger in itching skin diseases. But they make you miserable. Doan's Ointment is a never-failing cure. Jacksonville citizens endorse it. John Minter, of 23 South Main street, formerly, overager of the poor for Morgan county, says: "I had eczema on my limb and although I used numerous remedies prescribed for me I did not get anything that proved effectual. My attention was called to Doan's Ointment as a specific for all irritation of the skin. Now that was just what I wanted, and I made up my mind to give it a trial. It certainly proved to be a grand remedy, soothing and healing the irritation almost at once."

For sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

FENCE PROBLEM SOLVED BY THE FARMERS.

Wire fencing is one of the most important expenditures connected with farming. And the farmer has given it as much study as any one thing. Fencing is a necessity, and the farmer has watched the life of different kinds of fence and can ask: Now if the farmers, not only in Morgan county, but in the United States, buy more AMERICAN fence than all other kinds combined, which is a fact, their decision is "AMERICAN," and the great FENCE PROBLEM IS SOLVED BY THE FARMER.

American fence is made by the largest MANUFACTURERS OF WIRE IN THE WORLD, making every kind of wire for all purposes, even to piano wire. The American Steel & Wire Co. know by years of experience just the right temper of wire to put into a fence to hold the galvanizing and stand the test required of a fence.

AMERICAN is the POPULAR FENCE of the times. It has come to the front on its merits. More AMERICAN FENCE is used in Morgan county than all other kinds combined. There are nearly 100 different kinds of fence on the market, but ten times more AMERICAN is used than of all other kinds combined. This means something. It means that AMERICAN has proven its merits, strength and durability. It means the farmer's judgment is correct. It means the farmer knows more about fence than he who sells it. I am taking your judgment when I sell AMERICAN. Farmers told me eight years ago the AMERICAN was good fence. You know that AMERICAN has the best galvanizing. Don't be deceived by talk about special wire, special processes, etc. Let the other fellow experiment. AMERICAN FENCE is made of the BEST fence material that can be produced. Wire just the right temper to hold galvanizing, not too hard and not too soft. Hard wire rusts quickest. AMERICAN is lower in price than some other fences because it is made in such LARGE QUANTITIES, and NOT because it is a "cheaper" fence. Call at my store and I will give you price and terms to suit you.

Would the farmers buy TEN TIMES more "American" if it was not the best?

ALUMNAE CONCERT

Graduates of Conservatory of Music Were Heard in Fine
Program Before Large Audience at State Street Church.The annual alumnae concert of the Illinois Conservatory of Music given in State Street church Friday evening proved to be a musical event of more than ordinary pleasure. A large audience was in attendance and every number of the excellent program was received with the warmest approval.
The first number was the Allegro Conspirito, Op. 26, of Tchaikovsky, played in a splendid manner by Miss Jeannette Thompson, '02, accompanied by Miss Hazel Brown, Miss Carrie Dunlap,
W. T. Brown and Howard Brown upon the stringed instruments. The number was given in a splendid manner and was greeted with well merit-of her hearers.Two organ numbers, "Fantasia" in fully proven by the finished manner in which her two numbers were given.Miss Nettie Helen McDougall, '97, one of our most popular pianists, contributed a splendid number, the Allegro Patetico, from J. S. Bach's concerto, Op. 80. The talented musician displayed her usual ability upon this appearance and was accorded a handsome tribute.The program was concluded with two violin duos, the Serenade of Godard and the Slumber Song of Erfeld, by Miss Hazel Mae Brown,

'02, and Miss Carrie Dunlap, '03.
These popular violinists were also greeted with sincere applause, which was as well merited as it was spontaneous.The annual alumnae concert of the Conservatory are always among the most pleasant events of the commencement season each year, and the one given Friday evening was no ex-

FUNERALS

MORMONS.

The funeral of C. E. James and Michael McMeans was conducted from the Church of Our Savior Friday morning at 8:30 o'clock. It was a sad and impressive spectacle when the three bodies were borne from the residence simultaneously by three sets of bearers, and placed within three hearse which were waiting to bear them to the church, where they were borne within together and placed with faces turned toward the altar.
A large audience which entirely filled the church was assembled, not so much from curiosity at the unusual sight of three members of one family lying in the embrace of death as the result of their heroism and devotion one to another, as from a desire to show appreciation of what the sacrifice meant, and their sympathy for the bereaved relatives.Very Rev. Dean Crowe officiated at the solemn high mass, and afterward made a few remarks. The service was very impressive, and was performed amid breathless quiet on the part of the audience.At the close of the services the remains were again borne to the hearse and were taken to Calvary cemtery where they were laid to rest.
The grave was completely covered with the many beautiful flowers which were sent by thoughtful friends, and which were in charge of Mrs. John Ryan and daughter, Mrs.
Dobson.The bearers for the father were

RAILWAY REGULATION

American and British Views on Rate-Making Powers.

SIR CHARLES J. OWENS' STATEMENT

London and Southwestern Railway Manager says British Experience Shows That While Fixing of Maximum Rates by the Government May Be Justifiable, Its Tendency Is to Arrest Natural Decline in Inter-Rateable Rate Legislation Not Opposed, Says Samuel Spencer.

An interesting and significant statement of special timeliness, in view of President Roosevelt's recent utterances on the question of railroad rate making and of Secretary Taft's discussion of the same subject at the banquet of the recent international railway congress at Washington, was made in an interview the other afternoon by Sir Charles J. Owens, general manager of the London and Southwestern Railway company, who is one of the most prominent of the British delegates to the congress, says the New York Post's Washington correspondent. Sir Charles has been active in railway management in England during the whole agitation of the matter of rate regulation there, and his experience of the effects of government regulation in Great Britain is especially valuable in the present discussion in the United States. Speaking from British experience, he says that the fixing of maximum rates may be justifiable, but he adds that the result of this in England has been to arrest the natural decline of rates and to maintain them at the high level at which they stood when regulation was adopted.

"Where I quarrel with the legislation proposed by President Roosevelt, as I understand it," said Sir Charles, "is that it is suggested that a tribunal shall have the right to fix an actual rate. In my opinion, a government should be perfectly satisfied with fixing reasonable maximum, leaving the railroad companies proper commercial liberty to set within the limits of those maximum, subject always to the enforcement of the law as it guards against discrimination in all its forms."

"I quite agree with the suggestion I have seen made more than once that it would be as logically unsound for the government to fix the price of bread as it would be to fix the price of the commodity we call railroad transportation. Its effect could only be to deprive the railway companies of that commercial elasticity in arranging their prices, which is a fundamental necessity in the conduct of any business. Indeed, but for the fact that there is a measure of monopoly in every railroad, although not to the same extent in the United States as in Great Britain, it would be hard to find any logical reason why even maximum should be imposed upon a railway company more than upon the producer of any other necessary of life, for such we may surely call transportation."

Speaking of the regulation of freight rates by the British government, Sir Charles said:

"Dealing with the question historically, it should be remembered that when each individual railway company obtained its powers from parliament the powers were accompanied by the imposition of maximum rates. The rates varied greatly in many districts and were in every case accompanied by a classification setting out the classes, in which various articles of merchandise were to be found, but the classes were extremely vague and covered but very few articles and commodities. From time to time amalgamation of companies has taken place so that our largest railroads in Great Britain are, broadly speaking, made up of ten or even twenty of small companies, each originally having various powers both as regards rates and classifications. This made it extremely difficult for any trader to decide whether the rates charged by a particular railway company were within the maximum powers of that company and would often involve referring to anything between ten and twenty different acts of parliament. This led to a great many complaints on the part of the public and to constant false accusations against the railway companies, that they were charging in excess of their powers."

Repeated committees of the houses of parliament were appointed to consider the question, and the ultimate outcome was the passing of the railway and canal traffic act in 1888. This act provided that every railway company should submit to the board of trade a revised schedule of class rates and also a revised classification. The railway companies, of course, complied with this and after mutual consideration submitted classifications which were to be common to all railway companies and schedules of rates which, but very slightly differed. The board of trade then heard objections on the part of traders to the proposals of the railway companies, and public hearings of the whole case took place which lasted over eighty days. As the result of these hearings the board of trade, supporting the railroad companies' propositions in some cases and upholding various traders in others, submitted schedules and a classification to parliament for its consideration. Here again, the proceedings extended over several weeks, and the ultimate result was the passing into law of revised classifications and a revised schedule of rates.

The effect on the railway companies was materially to reduce their charges on certain articles of traffic, and their attempt to retrieve their position by increasing charges in other directions was frustrated both by the traders and by parliament, and a loss, varying from $10,000 to $20,000 per annum, was incurred by many companies. The result of the public to the attempted increase in certain rates found its outcome in another commission being appointed by parliament and the introduction of the act of 1894, which gave traders who felt aggrieved by an increased rate an opportunity of applying to the railroad commissioners against the enforcement of such a rate and placed the onus of proving the increase reasonable upon the shoulders of the railroad company.

"There is no doubt in my opinion, that this act of 1894 is salutary to the best interest of the trader and the railway alike. A man with a true commercial instinct will always be ready to consider the question of reducing prices with a view to securing increased business, but he will always hesitate to reduce prices if he knows that should he desire to restore them he will have to convince a not altogether favorable tribunal of their reasonableness."

"It will thus be seen that the British railway companies have always been subject to maximum rates fixed by parliament, and from my point of view, provided such maximum are in themselves reasonable, they form a proper protection to the public and one which the public is quite entitled to ask for. But this is altogether different from an attempt on the part of government to fix an actual rate. In all cases which have gone before the railroad commissioners in which undue preference to one trader over another has been urged, the judgment of the commissioners has been not that such and such a freight should be charged, but that the preference should be denied. This would leave a railway company free either to increase the rate charged to A or decrease the sum charged to B, and provided the preference was thus abated the railroad commissioners have been satisfied."

Samuel Spencer, president of the Southern railroad, said recently:

"There is no substantial basis for the view so often expressed that the railways are opposing legislation reasonably and equitably protective of their interest as well as that of the public. It is not practicable to say at this time what the exact provisions of such legislation should be. This in fairness should depend upon existing conditions and needs, which ought to be carefully and exactly ascertained and not assumed. These conditions and needs are now the subject matter of diligent inquiry by a committee of the senate. Final opinion and the formulation of legislation based thereon should be left until this inquiry shall have been completed."

"That the railways have considered that the legislation thus far suggested is not duly protective of their interest is undoubtedly true. Those interests cannot be adequately protected if decision is to be made and become effective upon the purely judicial question of the reasonableness and unreasonableness of a rate without strictly judicial procedure; they cannot be equally protected if one class of carriers is subjected to the provisions of the law and other classes competing for the same traffic shall be exempt. The carriers' interest cannot be fairly protected, and the commerce of the country must be injured by statutes which provide that a rate of transportation once fixed by any authority shall remain perpetually in force thereafter until changed by commission or by court."

"There is no division of opinion as to the desirability of stopping all secret or unjustly discriminatory devices and practices of whatever character, but there is a just and reasonable claim upon the part of the carriers that if evils in transportation are to be subject of further legislation those evils should be distinctly defined, that there should be a fair and exhaustive discussion as to how those evils can best be reached and remedied and that in the interests of the commerce of the country, which is so indissolubly linked with transportation, as well as in justice to the carriers and their owners, unnecessary legal restrictions and burdens should be avoided, which, while certainly harmful to those great interests, will not aid in correcting the evils."

Photographing Swiss Glaciers

Photography has recently been employed in Switzerland to obtain exact pictures of the glaciers as they now are, says the London Telegraph. In future times the terminal moraines can be compared with those of the present day. Whatever may be the cause, the fact seems to be that glaciers all over the world are shrinking. They were once certainly far larger in Switzerland and than they are now. The ice caps round the poles are also growing less as to the north pole, this was pretty well known some time ago, and now the Antarctic explorers report that the ice fields round the southern pole are also far less than they were when Ross made his Antarctic voyage sixty years ago. When the reasons for this decrease of glaciation are known a clew may be found for the occurrence of the glacial epoch, eighty or a hundred thousand years ago.

Bakers' Marks

THERE is a story of an old lady who made up a batch of mince and apple pies. Wishing to be able to distinguish one kind from the other she marked the mince pies T M for "us mince" and the apple pies T M for "taint mince."

The baker's marks on the ordinary run of bakery products are of little more value for purposes of identification than the marks on the old lady's pies.

But here is a trade mark that really identifies,—that enables you to distinguish the world's best baking—the Biscuit, Crackers and Wafers made by the National Biscuit Company. This trade mark appearing in red and white on each end of an air tight package guarantees the contents to be of highest quality—pure, clean and fresh. To learn something of what this trade mark means buy a package of on which it appears. You will find them full flavored, crisp, and satisfying—not common graham crackers at all—but more palatable, more nutritious—in fact a revelation in modern baking.

MODERN SHOE REPAIRING

In the shoe repairing business to day. The work in the repair department has increased so in the last few months that we are forced to hire another shoemaker. Fred Gustafson, of Lynn, Mass., has been secured to operate the machine and in sewing the soles and finishing the work.

One Grade of Leather

No discrimination in the leather, one grade only being used and it the best. Soles sewed on with the machine will wear longer and be more comfortable. No wetting or disturbing of the innersole, it is the only practical way to half sole shoes. These machines are no experiment, they have been thoroughly tried and have proven satisfactory. Have your soles sewed on and finished by machinery. Good, prompt and efficient service. Half soles sewed, 50 and 60c. Half soles backed, 35, 40 and 50c.

DELIGHTFUL ENTERTAINMENT

Literary and Musical Program by Luther Walther Circle of Salem Lutheran Church. Enjoyed by Large Audience.

A delightfully novel entertainment was given by the Luther Walther circle of the Salem Lutheran church Friday evening in the parochial school building, which was enjoyed by all who could gain entrance to the room or stand about the door and windows on the outside. The program comprised musical and literary numbers, all of which were excellent, but special mention should be made of the dialogues.

A neat stage had been arranged at the north end of the room, with curtains and settings entirely adequate for the purpose for which it was intended and upon this the four "disables" or comedy character sketches were given. The first was in German entitled, "Moderne Dienstmaedchen," produced by Misses Lydia Hoffman, Cornelia Wiegand, Anna Scholz, Anna Wiegand, Anna Hallerberg and Martha Lindemann and Ed Wiegand, which was given an excellent reception.

The next was in English, "School the Future Housewives," the characters being taken by Misses Laura Brune, Pearl Toussaint, Anna Hallerberg, Margie Pechloff, Anna Brune, Anna Wiegand and Lydia Hoffman. This sketch was full of innocent fun and was received with roars of laughter.

The third sketch, an exceedingly comical one, was in German, "Gott ist Zuhilfenahme," the victim of the catastrophe was Louis Hoyer, who took the part exceedingly well. Willie Hoffman was the M. D., and Ed Wiegand, Lydia Hoffman, Laura Brune, Anna Brune and Lena Scholz appeared in the role of sympathizing friends.

The last of the productions was in a two-room setting, entitled "Stop that Riddle." The fiddler was Louis Hoyer, the eccentric professor was Ed Wiegand, his black faced retainers, Willie Brune and Ernest Pechloff, and the colored doctor, Louis Hoffman.

The complications arising from an attempt to discourage the practice of a tuneless violin of the occupant of a neighboring room were portrayed in an excellent and laughable manner, which won great applause.

The program was as follows:

Piano duet, On the Race Course (Charles D. Hink), William and Laura Brune.

Recitation, How Father Carves the Duck—Mollie Graubner.

Dialogue, Moderne Dienstmaedchen—Ed Wiegand, Misses L. Hoffman, C. Wiegand, L. Scholz, A. Wiegand, A. Hallerberg, M. Lindemann.

Song, Stoftele—L. Hoyer and B. Wiegand.

Dialogue, Schooling Future Housewives—Misses L. Brune, P. Toussaint, A. Hallerberg, M. Pechloff, A. Brune, A. Wiegand and L. Hoffman.

Piano solo, Impromptu, Op. 342 (Schubert)—Cornelia Wiegand.

Recitation, Puzzled—William Graubner.

Pairings were made at the club house after the scores were in and the following will play against each other in an 18-hole match. The winners of each match will continue to play. The pairings are:

Luttrell vs. Ledford.

Danskin vs. Huffaker.

Osborne vs. Walker.

Dinsmore vs. Smith.

The above contests must be played not later than Monday.

The winner of the final event will have custody of the spring championship cup for one year. The runner up to the winner will receive an appropriate medal.
